GOD IN THE STORM.

"Did you hear the storm last night, my child,
As it burst o'er the midnight sky—
When the thunder rattled loud and wild,
And the lightning flicker'd by?"

"I heard no tempest, mother mine—
I was buried in slumber sweet;
Dreaming I stood in the soft moonshine,
With flowers about my feet."

"Can it be, my child, that you did not hear

The roar of the tempest's breath,

As it scattered the rent leaves far and near,
In many an eddying wreath?"
"No, mother; my happy sleep was full
Of gentle and holy things—
Shapes that were graceful and beautiful,
And the music of angel's wings."

"Yet the storm was loud, my darling child— There was death on the hurrying blast; And vapors dark overhead were piled, As the hourse wind bellowed past." "I thought not of clouds, my mother dear,

I thought not of clouds, my mother dear, When I rose from my murse's knee; ou taught me that God is forever near, So what danger could I see?"

"I taught you well, my sinless one;
Yet my own weak spirit qualied,
As the midnight blast rolled mailly on,
And the moon's calm luster failed."
"Were you wrong, then, mother, when you said
That God's eye turned not away,
But in darkness watch'd about my bed
As it did on my path by day?"

"I am rebuked!" was the meck reply,
As the mother bent her knee;
"On lips of babes doth many a lesson lie—
I have learnt one, child, from thee;
His wrath, which makes the suner weep,

By a guilty conscience vex'd,

Does but deepen the sinless infant's sleep,

And rock it to gentler rest.

And while thunders housely peal around, Speaking was to the worldling's ear, The Lord, in his mercy, stills their sound,

When innocence is near;
And while his living fire appals
The guilty here below,
The shadow of the Saviour falls
On childhood's sleeping brow."

Something more than a mere singer is required, though from common practice we might infer otherwise. the surface. He ought to be acquainted with the rules of composition, modulation, musical feet, cadence, elecution and thorough bass. Every thing depends upon the proper adaptation of music to the poetry. The accent of the former must be sacrificed to the latter, and all the rules for correct reading ought to be strictly observed in singing, and never take breath between the syllables of any word.

The expression of the different keys is very important. To account satisfactorily for their different effects is difficult; but every musician is sensible of their existence, and for the benefit of those who probably have not the means of informing themselves in If you are sure to get Constock's, you will find it this important department of the science, I will take the liberty to lay before such, the opinions of the best authors and composers with which I am conversant.

DR. STERRY'S HAIR REGENERATOR.—Dr. DR. STERRY'S HAIR REGENERATOR.—Dr. Sterry, after much attention to the important subject of preserving the hair, has after many experiments chemical and physical, been able to discover an article which is now offered with the greatest confidence for the toilette, as the best thing ever discovered, for its softening and penetrating quality, to produce a good head of hair—to prevent it from falling off when taldness is apprehended—to restore it when baidness has taken place, and to prevent it from turning gray. It is more nourishing than pomatum, antique oil, or Cologne water. It is a beautiful article for indies' curli—it makes the hair soft and lively, and produces uncommon brilliancy. Thousands have for ladies' curls—it makes the har soft and lively, and produces uncommon brilliancy. Thousands have tested its superior virtues and excellence, and in every instance it stands unrivalled. It is an infallible cure in all affections of the skin on the head—as dandraff, &c &c.
